FIELD NOTES

For the first time in its eight-year history, the Super Senior Women's Amateur will feature a full 16-player match-play bracket.

The increase in popularity of the event – for players ages 65 and older – led to the change for 2026. In the past, only eight players advanced to the championship flight. The change was necessary. This year, 27 players will try to qualify for the senior championship flight, while 29 will try to qualify for the super senior championship flight.

- Though Joan Gardner (pictured above) recently won the North-South Super Senior Women's Amateur Championship at Pinehurst, she will continue to compete in the senior division at The Homestead. She'll look to shake off a tough finish to last year's final, where she held a 2-up lead against eventual champion Kristin Shifflett with two to play before falling in 19 holes.
- Shifflett is looking to become just the third player to win three straight Senior Women's Amateur titles.
- Shifflett and Gardner both qualified for the upcoming U.S. Senior Women's Amateur, which will be played at Portland Golf Club in Oregon September 26-October 1. Shifflett shot 75 to earn medalist honors at the Argyle CC qualifier in Maryland.
- Shifflett partnered with Bev Lane to win the senior division at the VSGA Women's Four-Ball Championship in May. Lane, who reached the final in 2023 and was medalist in 2017, is also in the field.
- Last year, Mimi Hoffman added a Super Senior Women's Amateur title to a resume that includes five wins in the Senior Women's Amateur. She defeated Becky Hawkins in last year's final, and both are in the super senior field this year.
- Shawn McCullough is 1-2 in Super Senior Women's Amateur final matches, having defeated fellow Mount Vernon CC member Linda DiVall in 2022 while losing to DiVall in 2023 and Casey Burley in 2024. All three are in the field this year.
- Dot Bolling, the VSGA's all-time leader in women's victories with 14, is back in the field and is seeking her first Super Senior Women's Amateur title since winning the first three playings of the event from 2019-2021. Overall, Bolling has won six super senior titles in her career.
- Others to watch in the Super Senior Women's Amateur include past Senior Women's Amateur champions Boodie McGurn, Shelley Savage, and DiVall, and past SWA finalist Lindsay Wortham.
